1. Jamia Hamdard University (JHU)

Jamia Hamdard came into existence in 1989 when the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India, declared it a “Deemed to be University” on the recommendations of the University Grants Commission (UGC) under Section 3 of UGC Act 1956. It was realization of dream of its Founder Hakeem Abdul Hameed, a great philanthropist and educationist of his time, who invested the profits from his fledgling industrial house “Hamdard Dawakhana” in the education mission. Since its inauguration, Jamia Hamdard has strived to maintain high standard of education to meet the challenges at local and international levels.

Today the University comprises HIMSR (Hamdard Institute of Medical Sciences & Research), School of Unani Medical Education and Research, School of Pharmaceutical Education & Research, School of Nursing Sciences and Allied Health, School of Chemical & Life Sciences, School of Interdisciplinary Sciences & Technology, School of Engineering Sciences & Technology, School of Humanities & Social Sciences School of Management & Business Studies and Hamdard Institute of Legal Studies and Research. Each of these schools have made their own mark in academics and research.

In recognition of the University’s contribution to high quality teaching and research, the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC), a constituent body of the University Grants Commission, has conferred on it ‘A+’ Grade. Jamia Hamdard has tried to maintain these standards and has been able to attract talented students and faculty from globally. Currently, students from over 30 nationalities are enrolled in the University in different courses. This speaks volumes of the reach and quality of the University’s academic profile and establishes it as one of the leading universities of the country.
